

LAP 48...in ALSIP. Your car is leading, you wreck, lose your battery, and there are 2 laps to go. What do you do??

Suck it up and WIN! That's exactly what Tom Szarzynski of TNT Heating and Cooling did to take the checkered flag at Harry Alter's Alsip Race. In what currently stands as the most exciting race in the ongoing Harry Alter Tournament racing Series, the May 10th Alsip Race was FILLED with Drama!

The 24 racers, 2 semifinals, and 50 lap final simply seemed like background noise compared to "Lap 48". Tom from TNT was dominating the field by 10 laps creating a gap that essentially made the race strictly a battle for second place, and avoiding all the wrecks and pile-ups while seemingly cruising to victory when DISASTER STRUCK!

The other racers had Tom in their sights when one of them plowed Tom's car at full speed sending his RC car out of control and the battery flying into the pits. Our race official scrambled frantically to get Tom's battery back in the car and Tom back in the race, but the competitors continued taking huge bites out of Tom's 10 lap lead! 5 laps to go and the battery slips back out of the car, 3 laps to go and Tom's car won't start, 2 laps to go and Tom's back in the race and fighting to keep his dwindled lead when his nearest competitor gets into a wreck and the crown goes WILD!! Tom snatched the victory.
